

Letter of Intent
David C. Dolansky

Hello,

My name is David Dolansky and I am running for Class President this year. For those of you who don't know me, I am the current sophomore president, I'm from the Cleveland area, I play football, and I am an actor here at CWRU. Upon reflection of the last two years here, it is clear that I truly value relationships. I love talking with you all and learning more about your lives. There is always another story to tell, another perspective to listen to, another hardship to be shared, and I see all of these interactions as fresh new experiences to be had. I have gotten to know, plan events for, and represent you all. When asked "what is leadership," I would say leadership is trying your absolute best to not just be familiar with your peers, but to learn from and enjoy the years along side you. One characteristic that I found imperative to forming these bonds was surprisingly simple: to be sincerely friendly. My welcoming personality has allowed me to interact with those of you I know well and with those students I have yet to get to know. In an environment, such as CWRU, where the weeks may seem overwhelming with school work and tests, a simple hello and a smile is a gesture both small yet impactful for brightening up a fellow classmate's day. Once again, I ask for the opportunity to represent those who I know well, and those I hope to get to know more over the next year. I hope that I am given the opportunity to utilize what I have learned from the last two years as your president and improve for the next year. I am excited for Junior year with you all, and Go Spartans!
